

Sahat Kula, Počitelj, Bosnia and Herzegovina

Ushguli, Svaneti, Georgia

© Alessandro Pires De Souza | Dreamstime.com;
Caucasus Landscape © Toxawww | Dreamstime.com

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

CONCEPTS IN

SOCIOCULTURAL SPACE

THE BALKANS AND THE CAUCASUS IN FOCUS

KEYNOTES

Nick Enfield | The University of Sydney – Victor Friedman | University of Chicago
Maria Koptjevskaja-Tamm | Stockholm University – Kevin Tuite | University of Montreal
Brian Joseph | Ohio State University

The Balkans and the Caucasus offer one of the richest sources of empirical data on various manifestations of intercultural interaction and thus a promising basis for cognitive analysis. The two regions have numerous parallels and therefore lend themselves to a comparative analysis of concepts in sociocultural space.

The international conference seeks to gain insights into the ways, social constructs, networks, interdependencies and developments – present and past – are conceived and conceptualized in the Balkans and the Caucasus. By (re)evaluating anthropological, linguistic, socio-economic, historical, and other evidence the talks will introduce new perspectives, bring and contrast new factual data.

CONCEPT AND ORGANIZATION:

Katsiaryna Ackermann and the Language-Culture-Cognition Lab team | <https://lcl.acdh.oeaw.ac.at/>

CONTACT:

Katsiaryna Ackermann, katsiaryna.ackermann@oeaw.ac.at | Joachim Matzinger, joachim.matzinger@oeaw.ac.at

REGISTRATION mandatory over the conference homepage:

<https://www.oeaw.ac.at/ihb/forschungsbereiche/balkanforschung/ciss-2023>

SUPPORTED BY:

ÖAW | Grant Service

