

VIENNA YEARBOOK of Population Research

DEADLINE EXTENDED!

Due to the recent global developments and the impact of the Covid-19 pandemic on all our academic and daily lives, we decided to extend the deadline for submission until 31 May 2020

Submit your paper to the Vienna Yearbook of Population Research 2021

The Vienna Yearbook of Population Research (VYPR) is seeking submissions for a Special Issue entitled "Demographic Aspects of Human Wellbeing", which will be guest edited by (in alphabetical order) Vanessa Di Lego, Angela Greulich, Raya Muttarak and Sonja Spitzer. Examples of topics include:

- Life expectancy based indicators of wellbeing
- (Economic) wellbeing over the life course and over time
- Demographic differentials/inequalities in wellbeing
- Wellbeing and intergenerational support
- Feedbacks from environmental change to human wellbeing

Please submit your full paper by 31 May 2020. All submissions will be subject to external double-blind peer review. Publication of this Special Issue is anticipated in 2021. Articles are going to be published in two steps: online first, as soon as the reviewing process for each contribution is finalised, and subsequently in the printed journal.

The VYPR is an open-access journal that has been published annually by the Vienna Institute of Demography (VID) of the Austrian Academy of Sciences since 2003. It is addressing population trends as well as a broad range of theoretical and methodological issues in population research. Article submission, processing and publication, including coloured graphs, are free of charge. The journal is circulated in print and online with all articles freely available for download on the VID website and included in the JSTOR database. Please find detailed information on the submission procedure as well as style and layout instruction on the VYPR website: www.viennayearbook.org
